Making Tourism More Sustainable

For over two decades the SWP and the Great Lakes Climate Corps (GLCC) have been working to make tourism more sustainable throughout the Upper Peninsula. More tourism is great for the regional economy, but it can also mean more environmental impacts! Each summer GLCC crews are working to restore coastal dunes, control trail erosion, improve habitat, remove litter and more! Now the SWP is joining Travel Marquette and other organizations to raise awareness about how people can reduce their impact when visiting our sensitive natural areas.
