Young stewardship

Farming is one of the best ways families can make a difference in our communities.

Young farmer | Farm Stewardship Grant Program | www.michiganfarms.org

Many of you who have lived on a farm and know the everyday grind of farm life will appreciate the opportunity to pass on your knowledge and wisdom to the next generation of farmers.

That's the main goal of a local environmental effort. The Sustainable Agriculture Network has received a $50,000 grant through the Great Lakes Conservation Commission, which includes funding for its Young Farmer/Young Stewardship Grant Program.

The Sustainable Agriculture Network is a community-supported farmers market in Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

The Sustainable Agriculture Network (SAN) is a non-profit organization that promotes sustainable agriculture in Michigan. SAN's mission is to provide a forum for the exchange of ideas and information about sustainable agriculture and to support farmers who are working towards sustainable practices.

SAN's Young Farmer/Young Stewardship Grant Program is designed to help young farmers and young stewards develop the skills and knowledge they need to succeed in their careers. The program provides grants to support training, education, and other activities that help young farmers and young stewards succeed.

The program is open to young farmers and young stewards who are living in Michigan and who are actively involved in agriculture or environmental stewardship. The grants can be used to support a variety of activities, including training courses, workshops, and other educational programs.

If you're interested in learning more about the Young Farmer/Young Stewardship Grant Program or applying for a grant, please visit www.michiganfarms.org for more information.

For more information on the Young Farmer/Young Stewardship Grant Program, please visit www.michiganfarms.org.